To Whom It May Concern,

Apoorva B S worked at Jar office as an User Research Intern under my supervision for a time span of around 4.5 months. During that time, I developed a very high regard for Apoorva by witnessing her remarkable dedication and growth.

During her internship, she demonstrated a genuine passion for user research and quickly grasped complex concepts, applying them effectively in real-world projects. She actively participated in team discussions, contributing valuable insights that influenced our project direction positively.

I was particularly impressed by her attention to detail and empathetic approach to conducting user research studies. Aside from technical prowess, Apoorva exhibited excellent interpersonal skills, fostering a collaborative and positive team environment. Her adaptability and willingness to embrace feedback showcased her growth mindset and ability to excel in challenging situations.

Based on her exemplary performance, I wholeheartedly recommend her for any user research role/product role wherein knowledge of understanding the user is required. Her dedication and potential make her a valuable asset to any team seeking a motivated and skilled user research/product professional.
